CHAIR'S UPDATE

Welcome to CPD-HP's January 2022 newsletter.

The QU Health CPD team are happy to announce the upcoming CPD schedule.

Over the previous months, QU Health CPD events welcomed over 1000 viewers and participants. We encourage all attendees to take time to reflect on their learning and development. This process is continuous and requires allocated time to critically review goals, targets and acquired learning.

The CPD model displayed may serve as a useful tool in facilitating process.

SPRING 2022 ACTIVITIES

The QU Health CPD team have put together a comprehensive schedule of events for the Spring 2022 season.

Over the coming months, dental professionals can benefit from the compelling series of complementary weekly CPD sessions that will be offered, beginning on January 12th with Train the Trainer: Oral Health prevention and the Dental Team followed by Management of carious pulp exposures in the calcium silicate based-material era on January 20th.

In addition, the CPD team have reviewed your responses to the recently administered stakeholder survey and identified the relevant and requested topics. Subsequently, local and international experts have accepted invitations to join our CPD community and share their experiences and expertise through participating in the upcoming scheduled activities. January 17 will be the first of these events in which Professor of Pharmacy Practice at Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland, Judith Strawbridge, will be discussing the importance of Patient and Public Involvement in healthcare education and research. Later in January, QU Health CPD will welcome Dr Rob Argent will be exploring the applications of digital health approaches and discussing their impact on healthcare systems.

Please refer to the QU Health CPD website for the latest updates to the CPD schedule and to submit your registration.

If you missed these events or would like to watch them again, the recordings may be accessed for free via YouTube. The link for each video appears on the events page of the QU Health CPD website.
